Educational & Academic Retail Shops Pilot

A pilot granting waivers to educational and academic retail shops to do curbside and front door pickup.

- No customers inside the stores
- Will start with locally owned businesses spread out across DC
- Businesses will be required to share data about sales, hours, how they adjusted operations, and what worked and what didn't

When the time comes to reopen, we want to help our local businesses succeed.
Through this pilot, we can work together to learn important lessons while ensuring safe operations.

Applications open Friday, May 15.

...there is a real risk that you will trigger an outbreak that you may not be able to control. Which, in fact, paradoxically will set you back, not only leading to some suffering and death that could be avoided, but could even set you back on the road to trying to get economic recovery.

- Dr. Fauci on reopening too soon

House COVID-19 response bill would make Washington, DC whole by repaying $755 million

THANK YOU,
Speaker Pelosi, Leader Hoyer, and Congresswoman Norton

We urge the Senate to support this important measure, and the Administration to see it through so that DC can invest in health, opportunity, prosperity, and equity when we reopen.
